

VIII. ENS Fellowships 2007: First Deadline May 15, 2006

The first deadline for submitting an application to obtain an ENS Fellowship Stipend for the year 2007 is May 15, 2006. If you have designed a research project which you wish to realise in a well-equipped institute or laboratory affiliated with the ENS, send your application now. The requirements for application are given below.

Fellowship terms: The European Neurological Society will support the scholarship holder for a period of 6 months. The monthly stipend amounts to EUR 2,000. The scholarship is to be held at a host institution in Europe during the year 2007. ENS sponsors this programme to provide an opportunity for talented researchers to participate in an exchange of scientific activities between home and host institutions. Programme is primarily aimed at young neurologists contributing actively at ENS Meetings.

Eligibility: Applicants must be less than 40 years of age, and affiliated with an academic neurological department. Applicants and/or home or host institution must be active at ENS meetings. The ENS invites applicants from European nations, as well as those outside Europe.

Application: The following documents are required:

- a project description according to the format described in the application form;
- a letter of acceptance from the host institution (chairperson or senior staff under whose supervision the fellowship will be carried out);
- the applicant's curriculum vitae, including publications;
- a list of scientific papers presented at ENS meetings by the applicant and/or home or host institution. A copy of the applicants papers, including programme number and presentation date, must be submitted;
- copy of identity card or passport.
